

Education Institute Member
International Association for Counselling

Granting IAC Affiliate Membership to Your Students

Would your students appreciate receiving:

- Added value for their enrolment in your education course/programme?
- Access to regular updates from the counselling field worldwide?
- International recognition of their professional achievements?
- Discounts on international events and courses?

IAC Education institute members (Universities, Training Schools, Colleges) have the opportunity to grant IAC Affiliate Student Membership to their students through a professional affiliate arrangement.

Professional Affinity arrangements are already common across established professions, and enable better connected and unified professions. These arrangements deliver additional recognition, information, value-for-money, and opportunities for students.

What benefits would your students receive?

IAC Education Institute Members already receive specific benefits for the institution, but this add-on opportunity would confer the following directly to your students:

- Opportunity to communicate their membership of IAC
- Access to exclusive news from the field worldwide (monthly e-newsletters)
- Discounts on IAC (conferences, webinars) and educational materials
- Certificates of membership (agreed template/s issued to Education Institutes)

Application Form

ADDITIONAL REASONS to consider this add-on benefit for your members include:

- Increasing student satisfaction levels.
- Low cost per student (see fee categories below).
- Utilizing the affiliate memberships as an additional recruiting tool.

Delivering on mission and strategic objectives (e.g., in areas such as student services and international connection).

- Strengthening student professional identity and unity worldwide.
- Promoting a further partnership with the profession's world body.
- Delivering on values that are in line with student and faculty wishes by further supporting the work of IAC and thereby:

- o Supporting our social justice and humanitarian aims.
- o Facilitating thousands more people having access to counselling worldwide.

o Supporting the development of the counselling profession in low-income-economy countries, thereby helping to address inequities.

- Boosting international recognition for your Education Institute among counselling professionals, and counselling communities, in other countries.
- Attainment of knowledge on the latest, newest and best counselling practices from outside of your country.
- The opportunity to increase information sharing on counselling in your country.
- Particular interest and appeal to international and internationally-minded counselling students.

FEE CATEGORIES

IAC is a non-profit organization and we seek to keep fees low per student member. Membership income contributes to operating costs and developing the profession worldwide. Payment categories are based on scale (student numbers), region, and benefits. In order to make membership more affordable to associations in developing (non-high-income economy) countries, fees are based on the World Bank GNI - Atlas Method data. Fees relate to 2023.

Non-High-Income Economy Countries: All countries that are high-income economies - as designated by the World Bank index - are listed at the bottom of this page). If a country is not listed then it is presently considered to be a non-high-income economy country.

Multi-Year Plans: In certain circumstances a discounted multi-year arrangement may be put in place. Please contact us for details.
