International Association for Counselling

Introduction

The International Association for Counselling (IAC) is an International Non-Governmental Association (NGO) with UN consultative status. Since 1966, we have worked to advance the development of counselling through practice, education, research, and advocacy initiatives. IAC advances the development of counselling in order to improve people's lives and well-being.

Our Vision: A world where counselling is available to all.

Counselling changes lives for the better and reduces suffering. IAC's humanitarian movement advocates for more access to counselling worldwide. IAC lobbies and influences governments and international organisations to have counselling better recognised as a profession. IAC is working to advance the counselling profession worldwide and we invite you to join us in our mission.

What is IAC Certification?

Certification is awarded in recognition of a validated commitment to raising counselling standards through: international learning and exchange, respect for diversity, and the promotion of cross-cultural awareness. In many cases, counselling educators and leaders want to outwardly showcase their institution's commitment to the international dimension of counselling. Many also wish to raise the appeal of their education programmes to potential students - including the burgeoning international student market. In addition, recognition by a prestigious international counselling body, assists in bringing deserved, additional, credibility to high quality programmes. For IAC, raising the standard and quality of education programmes worldwide, through awarding our certification, directly aligns with our central aim of advancing counselling worldwide.

IAC Certification brings with it multiple benefits that go far beyond the enhanced status of successful certification. These include the creation of multiple opportunities for international collaborative research, networking, internship and exchange.

- International Counselling Journal (since 1976)
