Dear Members,

Welcome to the September 2018 IAC E-Newsletter and I hope you enjoy reading it. During 2018, we have been delighted to welcome new members and, in particular, to develop our major World Mapping of counselling project.

We are expecting record numbers of International and Italian participants at our 2018 IAC annual conference, which will take place in Rome, Italy on the 22nd and 23rd of September. We have a wonderful line-up of speakers and hope that you will be able to join us.

The highlights of this E-newsletter include: a Webinar link, an article on self-understanding, Rome conference information, and European guidelines on mental health. We also have notices about events and research that we hope you find useful.

Yours Sincerely,
Dr Dione Mifsud.

This European Union (EU)-produced booklet presents good practices on mental health and well-being identified across the European Union. While many research institutions, care centres, nongovernmental organizations, and governments within the EU conduct programmes and practices centred on mental health, it can be difficult to find information about them and ensure their use and expansion to other settings. Good practices are a valuable resource to share knowledge and experience between initiatives; they facilitate improvements in mental health by encouraging their adaptation and implementation by other settings. The EU Compass for Action on Mental Health and Well-being has been commissioned by the Consumers, Health, Agriculture and Food Executive Agency (Chafea) to collect, exchange, analyse, and disseminate information on policy and stakeholder activities in mental health. Further, the Compass assists on the monitoring of mental health policies and activities through identifying and disseminating European good practices in mental health. The EU Compass works to improve mental health and well-being through collecting, analysing, and sharing new information on findings in care, policy developments, and stakeholder activities.

Self –Awareness: Who Am I?

Who am I? Why do I feel as if I am at war with myself some times?

There are three parts of our personality that are at war with each other; each one trying hard to be in charge of our personality. What is going on within me?

We are in the 21st century. What we will learn here is not new. It has been around since the late 19th century and early 20th century.

Sigmund Freud who worked with people who lost control of their lives or “went mad” identified what was happening within us. He described:

- THE ID: We have a selfish “gimme, gimme aspect of our personality. That part of us that wants everything for ourselves. We will not share. If we get some money we want to spend it all without any thought. If we did not have to work we will not. This ID is ruled by PLEASURE. This part of us expressed our basic ANIMAL NATURE. This pleasure part of us is motivated to behave by our biological instincts of SEX and AGGRESSION.

- THE EGO: Then something happens to us and we go “OUCH! THAT HURT”- and REALITY hits us. We learn that we cannot just grab everything that we want and have sex without thinking and the EGO becomes activated. This part of us is ruled by REALITY and our HUMAN NATURE begins to develop. We now become aware of the fact that there is a community around us and society is organized in a way to encourage progress in relationships. This means that we must work together with reason, learn to solve problems, make decisions, make prudent judgements, and move away from the level of animal. As human beings we were created with the ability to think for ourselves (intelligence) and the power to choose our good (will). As our EGO (reality) grows stronger our ID (selfishness) gets weaker. It is not destroyed entirely, but it does not rule our personality.

- THE SUPEREGO: Then there is the SUPEREGO which is considered our DIVINE NATURE. We are born into a culture which tells us what we can do and what we cannot do. It is then we begin to develop a CONSCIENCE. Our CULTURE nurtures our CONSCIENCE. This part of us helps us to understand that each one of us must play a part in maintaining and perpetuating order in our homes, our communities and our society. There are rules which help us to be our best selves and which help others to be their best selves. Maintaining and perpetuating order demands that we must be “our brother’s keeper. This is as real as we can get. The SUPEREGO draws energy some energy from the ID or selfish part of us, and demands that it behaves itself. Our reality also draws some energy from the SUPEREGO and helps it not to become neurotic. People, who lose control of their lives, lose touch with reality.

Many times these three parts of us are at war with each other, with each one trying to win and take control of our personality. We must be aware of this.

A mentally-healthy person has a well-balanced personality and puts pleasure in perspective, has a well-developed sense of reality and understands that the potential for divinity through building communities with peace and love is the only way to progress. In a mentally-healthy person a conscience is very present.

NOTES:
Dr. Nate Perron is inviting participation in his research study “Enhancing cultural intentionality in counseling practice: A qualitative inquiry into counseling values as they are experienced among a variety of cultural contexts” (Northwestern University study #STU00207061). The purpose of this qualitative study is to take a phenomenological approach to understanding how counseling professional values are experienced in different cultures by counseling professionals connected through international counseling associations.

The study will consist of one 60-minute interview through an online video platform. Details for logging into the system will be provided when interviews are scheduled. If you would like to learn more about participation, please contact Dr. Perron by e-mailing nate.perron@northwestern.edu, or by calling +1 (847)733-4300 x646.
